

UI

For now, the program functions through the terminal, which is straightforward and does the job.

However, a UI can certainly be developed for this application later so that users have an easier time interacting with it.

You could even have a website instead of an application, that allows authenticated users to upload their files and manage their transactions directly in the browser.